

Angelica
Johansson

address UCL School of Public Policy, Department of Political Science and School of Public Policy, 29/31 Tavistock Square, London, WC1H 9QU
email angelica.johansson.18@ucl.ac.uk

education

University College
London,
London, U.K.
2018-ongoing

MPhil/PhD Student in Climate Change Politics – My PhD investigate the role of evidence in climate policy, specifically focusing in climate change loss and damage. Courses: Introduction to Quantitative Methods and Advanced Qualitative Methods.

Institute of Development Studies
(IDS) & Sussex
University,
Brighton, U.K.
2016 – 2017

MSc in Climate Change, Development and Policy [1st Class] – Courses: The Science of Climate Change; Ideas & Concepts in Climate, Development, Economics & Policy; Climate Change: Impacts and Adaptation; Low-Carbon Development, Research Methods and Professional Skills; Dissertation entitled: Better Safe Than Sorry? - An analysis of forecast-based action in Kenya 2015-2017.

Uppsala University
Uppsala, Sweden
2011 – 2015

BA in Peace and Development - Courses: Development studies A, B and C; Peace and Conflict Research A; Applied Sustainability Studies; Internship at the Swedish Permanent Representation to FAO, WFP and IFAD; Dissertation entitled: Climate Change Victims? – How leaders of Tuvalu relate to the climate refugee discourse.
Other courses – French A11 15 credits; French A12 15 credits; Practical French 7.5 credits; Wind Power Basics 7.5 credits.

employment

Sussex University
Brighton, U.K.
2017-ongoing

Research Assistant – Together with the Forecast-based Prepared Action (ForPac) research team and Help Age International I am conducting a survey that is analysing NGOs current use for climate information for decision-making and how climate information can help avoid disasters. This is done by conducting an online survey and by doing field research, e.g. focus-groups and interviews in Kenya and the Philippines.

The World Food
Programme (WFP)
Rome, Italy
2016

Intern at Government Partnerships Division – Tasks: Conducting research and gathered information about WFPs government partners, through media monitoring. I also prepared meeting briefs, correspondence letters and funding materials to Donors and WFP senior management. For upcoming events, board meetings or field trips I organised meetings between stakeholders and provided background information. Lastly, I managed PGGs Twitter account, aimed at giving donor visibility.

Inba Seva Sangam
(ISS)
Sevapur, Tamil Nadu,
India
2015

Evaluation and Monitoring Youth Trainee – Through Sida's Internship Programme I worked for ISS's Small Farmers Empowerment Programme. Under supervision I configured a tool for monitoring and evaluating the project. I also developed concept notes for studies to be conducted within the project.

Sweden's Permanent Representation to
FAO, WFP & IFAD
Rome, Italy
2015

Intern – Interned as a part of Sweden's delegation to the Rome-based UN-agency FAO with orientation on WFP. The internship included participation in meetings and negotiations in both the steering committees and the Committee on Food Security (CFS). Other tasks included covering seminars on FAOs humanitarian work and report back to the Department of Innovation and Enterprise and Sida.

Greenpeace
Brisbane, Sydney &
Melbourne, Australia
2010 - 2011

Travel Team Leader & Frontliner – My tasks included advocating Greenpeace's work and recruiting new members. I was also responsible for organising recruitment trips, e.g. booking accommodation, working permits and travel tickets. During these trips, I was responsible for meeting our daily and weekly recruitment targets.

other related experience + achievements

Sussex University
2016

Participatory Rural Appraisal Workshop led by Professor Andrea Cornwall – This five-day long training introduced me to participatory methodologies which I later put in practice. The results of the research contributed to work of making the University of Sussex more equal and inclusive.

Student Representative – This role included representing the MSc Programme in meetings with relevant teaching institutions: IDS, School of Global Studies and Science and Policy Research Unit (SPRU).

Institute of Development Studies
2016 - 2017

Workshop series led by Robert Chambers, OBE, on Participatory Approaches, Methods and Statistics – These workshops contained exercises on participatory mapping, power relations and teaching the importance of seeing more perspectives to development. Other workshops led by IDS Staff: Power Cube and Stakeholder Analysis.

Swedish
Development Forum
(FuF)
2014-2015

Communicator and Foreign Correspondent – Observed the current debate and opinions on Swedish politics for global development and foreign aid and updating the website bistandsdebatten.se. I was also writing for the online magazine "FuF i Världen".

CISV
2013

Rural Development project participant – I was selected to go to Indonesia with CISV, an NGO, to participate in a rural development project focusing on access to education.

UPaD Students' Association
2012
Uppsala, Sweden

Secretary for Uppsala Peace and Development Students' Association – I was elected to the post to be responsible for the meeting protocol as well as keeping minutes during the association's meetings. Other voluntary duties included organising activities for the members of the association.

Scholarships

European Research Council Studentship, 2018 - for full time PhD studies at UCL

Sussex University Chancellors Masters Scholarship (CMS), 2016 - for full time Master studies at Sussex University.

Sida Travel Scholarship, 2015 - for undertaking an internship at the Sweden's Permanent Representation to the FAO, WFP and IFAD in Rome, Italy.

Sida Minor Field Study Scholarship, 2013 - for field research in Tuvalu on the topic of climate change and migration for my dissertation in Development Studies.

skills

language

Swedish (mother tongue), English (fluent), French (advanced) Norwegian (advanced), Italian (beginner).

IT

Good skills in Microsoft Office and social media incl. Facebook and Twitter.

interests + passions

general interests

Above all I enjoy meeting new people and seeing new places. Therefore, I travel a lot during my free time. Otherwise I have a keen interest in cooking and eating nice food, sustainably produced as much as possible. I've also continued to practice guitar, yoga and climbing. I also love meeting friends and family and keeping up to date with news. When the season allows, I enjoy gardening and going hiking.